

Newsletter DWIH New York

December 2022

Dear reader,

We are happy to welcome the German Historical Institute (GHI) Washington as our newest main supporter, the DWIH New York advisory board unanimously accepted the application during its meeting in November. We are looking forward to future cooperation and a new perspective in our supporter network.

As the holidays approach, we wish you all the best for this special time of the year and a great start into 2023.

With kind regards
The DWIH New York Team

WHAT'S NEW?

Event Highlights November

In case you missed our social media posts, here is a little overview about some highlights: On November 4, the DWIH team participated at the Career Booster German(y) fair by the Goethe-Institut New York, later that month we took time work on the 2023 strategy during an outing at a WeWork space and the Google Offices in Manhattan, and we concluded the month with our successful event on Science Diplomacy.

DWIH Email Addresses

Those of you who have been in contact with us in the last few weeks surely have noticed: All DWIH New York email addresses have been switched to a new format (from @dwiH-newyork.org to @dwiH.org), so please note the new addresses and update your contacts accordingly. The old addresses will not be available any more after January 2023, when the transition phase ends.
